Seek solution for Venice senior citizens

The Venice Park Board announced Thursday night it will attempt to work out a compromise so that facilities of the park district building may be used by both the senior citizens and the youth during the summer months.

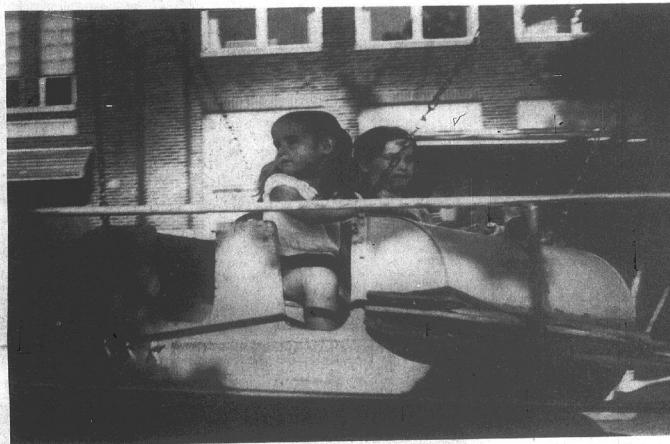

A delegation of senior citizens attended the park board meeting to request that the board reconsider an earlier decision that denied senior citizens the use of the building during the summer recreational program for youngsters of the district.

Decorated youth center was open June 11 until Aug. 3, which is the period of the youth recreation program.

Venice city officials and senior citizens have been trying to find a suitable location other than the recreation center. The major problem with other locations, such as church basements, is the use of stairways. A special meeting of the Venice Park Board has been called for Thursday to try and work out a compromise.

It was reported that the Thursday evening meeting 140 children had enrolled in the summer program and the number is on the increase.

SIU sued on closed meetings

A civil suit containing 14 counts charging all nine members of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees violated the Illinois Open Meetings Act in a series of secret meetings was filed Thursday in the 17th Judicial Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

The suit — a petition for a writ of mandamus and declaratory judgement — was filed by State's Attorney Nicholas Byron who said the action culminated an intensive four-months investigation by himself and Assistant State's Attorney Michael Thompson.

It seeks a court order directing the SIU Board of trustees to comply with the Open Meeting Act in the future and to require the board to record every closed meeting recording and to recognize stenographers at future closed meeting activities, with the records to be available to the state's attorney.

The open meeting law, technically known as "An Act in Relation to Meetings," was violated in 14 separate instances in discussions by board members of a plan to establish a chancellor with authority over the state's attorney.

Byron alleges in the suit that, among other things, the trustees held illegal

Grain City Chief of Detectives Robert Astorian was one of 250 officers who received diplomas Friday in graduation ceremonies at the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy at Quantico, Va.

The ceremonies concluded 11 weeks of executive level training for the officers, who represent 47 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the countries of Canada, Egypt, England, Korea and Norway.

In addition, six United States military and seven Federal agencies were represented.

Captain Astorian is the first Granite City officer to attend the FBI National Academy.

He joined the local police department in May 1968 and was promoted to detective in 1969, sergeant in 1974, lieutenant in May 1977 and captain in 1978.

In March of this year, Capt. Astorian was named deputy personnel officer of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Major Case Squad.

He has been a member of the Major

Case Squad for the past eight years.

A total of 13,147 officers has graduated from the FBI National Academy since it was started on July 7, 1935.

Of this number, over 8,000 still are active in law enforcement. Many of the graduates have gone on to assume executive level positions within their departments, according to Kenneth P. Walton, special agent in charge of the FBI's Springfield (Ill.) office.

The FBI National Academy curriculum is designed to teach the needs of contemporary law enforcement in such areas as police management, recent court decisions, urban police problems and behavioral sciences.

The FBI, through its modern facilities that opened in June 1972, houses approximately 1,000 law enforcement officers each year to participate in the FBI National Academy.

New FBI agents and veterans agents, as well as specialized law enforcement groups, also utilize the training complex, Special Agent Walton noted.

Trash bid rivalry is favored

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

A recommendation that Granite City call for sealed bids when renewal of its garbage and trash collection contract becomes due next year will be made to the City Council by its finance and sanitation committees.

Paul Ray Bowler of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the finance committee, said today that decision was reached by the two committees and that the present holder of the city garbage contract had been notified of the recommendation.

Bowler said he notified Kenneth Harbarger, regional director of SCA Service, which operates the Milam East plant, that the committee members believed sealed bids should be called for when the contract expires in 1980, rather than award a contract under a renewal clause of the existing contract.

The letter said in part:

"I would like to inform you that the members of the finance committee and the sanitation committee (of the City Council) met recently to discuss the refuse contract with the city."

"It was felt by the members that the only fair and ethical manner in which to approach this situation is to ask again for sealed bids. We are presently apprising you about this decision."

Harbarger was told the city committee had made a request for financial relief for the additional work of hauling sludge from the city's sewage treatment plant, and that the committee will meet with Harbarger on this issue prior to Tuesday night's council session.

Harbarger had suggested to the City Council to renew the existing garbage contract be renewed when the present three-year pact expires next year, with a five percent increase in the three years.

Milam-East has been hauling sludge from the treatment plant for the past two years without a contract adjustment in cost. Harbarger told the council this has developed into a serious financial problem for the company, and has asked for financial relief.

Hauling of sludge became necessary, when the plant's separator failed to burn the waste unless there was a heavy mixture with oil. The city said the cost of such burning was prohibitive.

A report on discussions by the finance and sanitation committees is expected to be given to council members at the regular meeting tomorrow night.

Added sewer grant sought

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The Milam-East Sanitary Sewer Committee has decided to ask the Madison County Board to apply to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for a supplemental grant of nearly $400,000 to help pay unanticipated costs related to constructing and upgrading sanitary sewers in portions of Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

The committee decided at its last meeting to seek a $399,020 grant to help in installing three-phase electrical circuitry to three major lift stations and to repair equipment that was expected to cost for "resident observation," which are representatives of the engineer who oversaw the construction.

"Normally, we anticipate observers will account for about two percent of the cost of the job. Since this was a large project, we only put in 1.5 percent for observers. However, they have had more work than anticipated and their salaries and expenses are

SIUE student fees restructured

A general restructuring of student fees at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, involving the setting of new fees and establishment of one new fee, was approved Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees. The changes will be effective for the fall quarter.

The restructuring abolishes the Student Welfare and Recreation Trust Fund Fee, which is $6 per quarter for full-time students, and the Student Activity Fee, currently set at $1.50 for full-time students.

Established is the Student Welfare and Activity Fee, to provide support for student activities, services, programs and facilities at a total cost of $19.30 per quarter for full-time students. The cost will be prorated for part-time students in the one to five-hour category.

Specifically, the new fee will have subfees for several areas, including students activities and organizations, student programming, student government, recreation programs, publications, student medical benefit and student legal services.

University officers said the subfees will indicate to students more clearly and precisely how their student fees monies are spent, will provide for greater accountability of fee usage, and will stabilize the funding for program and service areas. Each area presently is supported by revenues from the Student Activity Fee and the Student Welfare and Recreation Trust Fund Fee.

It also was announced that an advisory committee will be established for each subfee area. The committee will review and recommend on behalf of students, provide general advice and guidance to the programs or services in the particular areas, and work to avoid duplication of programs, services and activities. The specific composition of each advisory committee will be recommended by the Student Senate in consultation with the directors of appropriate programs and service units and will be approved by the president.

The University estimates the new fee will generate approximately $59,000 in Fiscal Year 1980, compared to $485,701 in projected FY 1979. The present fee structure had been continued. The increases in revenues will support legal services program, the IP/IR program, and the programs and services of student government.

Site approved for new PE, recreation facility at SIUE

The recommended site for the multi-purpose physical education, recreation and athletic building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was approved Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

After open discussions and hearings with the architects and University community, the SIUE planning committee for the multi-purpose building recommended "Site 1" located east and slightly north of the Budweiser Gym facility. Four other sites on the central campus had been considered.

According to the planning committee, there are a number of reasons why the site was selected. It is close to existing utility lines, and the architects indicated the cost projection for utility extensions was within budget parameters.

Further, the site is in close proximity to other campus buildings and would permit easy access for pedestrian traffic. The site will provide approximately 100,000 square feet of space for a variety of facilities, including a building for pilot fields and/or parking facilities. Existing parking lots behind the Communications, Science and Library buildings will be immediately available at the site.

It also is adjacent to existing outdoor play fields. A potential disadvantage to the site is the possibility of needing additional room for outdoor fields, but it was pointed out that these could be located in the areas west of the building sites under consideration and is relatively close to the recommended site.

Other sites considered included the area between the communications Building, the oval-shaped space between the University's U-turn and the fanned parking lots, and the space between parking lots 9 and 12. All proposed sites had been discussed with the architects at open hearings on campus, May 15-17.

Initial funds for planning the building were released by the Illinois Board of Higher Education March 22. The legislature is currently considering a Senate bill to appropriate $10.6 million in construction funds for the project.

Bryant president of training group

James O. Bryant Jr., director of environmental resources training center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been elected president of the National Environmental Training Association (NETA).

A founding member, Bryant previously served as president-elect of the 148-member national educational association of professional trainers of quality control facility personnel.

As president, he said he will "continue to work to advance knowledge in instructional and training techniques and to upgrade the technical and managerial skills of persons responsible for day-to-day operation, maintenance and management of environmental quality control facilities."

Bryant received his doctoral degree in environmental systems engineering from Clemson University in 1972 and served as a sanitary engineer with the Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency before being appointed ERTC director at SIUE in April, 1976.

He previously served two years as a Peace Corps in Bolivia, where he taught undergraduate chemistry and mathematics classes at Bolivian University.

An author and editor of numerous technical publications and a member of state and national associations, he also serves as a consultant to local industries and municipalities.

An employee of the liquor store said he noticed a youth acting suspiciously and the store manager watched him until one of the doors of the soft drink machines swung open.

running at about 3.3 percent," Ed Juncue, project engineer, explained.

The grant application also is to seek funds requested by Illinois Power and Union Electric companies to install power for the three main "big screw pump" lift stations, Juncue explained.

"We thought we could take that cost from our contingency fund, which was only three percent of the total project, but the EPA thought that was not a good idea of contingencies. The state has recommended that we ask for this grant. It was their idea," Juncue said.

He noted the contingency fund must also be used to supply sanitary sewers to serve Blue Spruce Court and Rita Court, where houses situated from the original plan but which have been found to qualify for sewers.

One reason for the unexpected cost of electrical service is that Juncue designed the three main lift stations to operate on single-phase electricity, but later discovered three-phase power and resulting electrical power were available, he said.

He contended single-phase power is not as economical to operate and the pump motors are not as dependable as those using three-phase electricity.

He also noted that PECO had offered a grant application for an EPA grant to aid in testing the Quiet Valley sanitary sewers to determine if they will need repairs or replacement to meet the requirements to tap into the new county sewers.

The village's sanitary sewer system will have to pass strict tests to prove they are free of leeks and will hold sufficient pressure before they will be allowed to tap into the new sanitary Juncue said he is negotiating with several firms to "influence" the new sewer system and where the new sewers are to go into Granite City sewers by the Granite City Army Installation.

Explorer Pipeline has a 14-inch underground manhole gauge and wants $3,690 to have the sewer committee to put the line lower in the ground.

Granite City Steel also has a 54-inch high pressure water line, Illinois-American Water Co. has a smaller water line and there are other service lines, all running through one area with the committee plans to put a 36-inch sewer pipe.

Juncue said negotiations with Explorer Pipeline indicate they will allow the sanitary sewer to be installed over the gas line if the county will give written assurances to the pipeline company that the sewer will be installed in a small possibility.

He said he felt the county should take the risk of putting the new sewer over the gas pipeline, rather than paying the $3,690 to have the gas pipe moved. The group that attended the meeting was dedicated to complaints of roads and yards damaged by sewer construction. Highway Commissioner Frank Melville of Nameoki Township said he feels heavy trucks are using side streets and damaging them by taking "short-cuts."

The youth further charges that the Feb. 3 meeting in which the decision for the governance change was made public was a "mere formality" because the decision was "for all practical purposes made prior to" that meeting.

In addition to the court order that all future executive sessions be taped to insure that the youth asked to require that trustees keep individual logs recording the time, date, place and time of any telephone conversation or other informal exchange dealing with university matters.

Instead, he noted, he instituted proceedings that will provide safeguards to prevent future violations of the Illinois Open Meeting Act.

SIU Board President Bill Rowe of Jacksonville, who did not said earlier that he did not believe Bryson's investigation would result in any action, told reporters he had no comment concerning the suit. "Naturally I don't agree with it (the allegations), but I haven't seen it and have no comment at this time," he said.

Youth faces two charges

Investigating a report of a fight taking place in the parking area at Long John Silver's Restaurant, 3775 N. Main St., at 10:30 p.m. Friday, police took two youths into custody.

One was released without being charged, but the second youth, Howard Teller, 17, of 175 Briarwood, was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and unlawful possession of cannabis.

A pair of brass knuckles and a small quantity of cannabis allegedly were in Teller's possession at the time of his arrest.

Teller was set at $135, but was released on notice to appear.

Members of Girl Scout brownies, junior and cadettes went on a day-long visit to Hannibal, Mo. last week.

They had a picnic lunch at Riverview Park and viewed the Mississippi River and the bronze statue of Mark Twain.

Leaders and parents accompanied the girls on a tour of the homes of Mark Twain and Becky Thatcher and the other restored buildings of Old Hannibal which were mentioned in Mark Twain's books.

A visit to the bronze statue of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn at the foot of Cardiff Hill led to nearly 150 steps to the lighthouse.

The group took a climb up the lighthouse and viewed a scuffle near the north fence of the festival site. He was taken to Wood River Township Hospital and was transferred to the intensive care unit of Christian Northern Hospital where he was reported in satisfied condition during the weekend.

Stills, Orleans, Natalie on week's MRF schedule

Appearances by Stephen Stills, Orleans, and Natalie Cole highlight the activities at the Mississippi River Festival the first half of this week on the campus of Southern Illinois University.

Edwardsville: "Stills and Orleans will perform at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the MRF site.

Stills has been in the forefront of rock music for more than a decade, first making his fame with the Buffalo Springfield which broke up in 1968.

Stills then joined various members of the group in Poco, then Crosby, Stills and Nash, with David Crosby off the side and Crosby, Nash of the Hollies. Crosby, Stills and Nash sold over two million copies of the album which included the hit, "Suite: Judy Blue Eyes."

Carolee Neil Young joined the trio in 1969 to form Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, which only lasted one year, but produced the number one album in 1970, "Déjà Vu."

Stills produced numerous hits in 1970 and 1971, including, "Love the One You're With." He then worked with Manassas, toured briefly with a 1974 reunion of Crosby, Stills and Young and has produced solo albums since then while touring the country.

Orleans will share Stills' program on Saturday. The group formed in 1973 and produced its first album titled "Orleans" in 1973. Their second album in 1975 included the hit, "Dance With Me," throwing them into the national music scene.

Concertgoers are reminded that glass containers, hot and cold alcoholic beverages are prohibited on the festival grounds.

Reserved tickets costing $9.50 per persons and lawn seats costing $7 are available in Illinois at Rockit Records in Edwardsville, 100 W. Main, and at Century Music in St. Clair Square, Lane Duck Records in Belleville and at the SIUE University Center from noon to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Additional concert information may be obtained by calling 1-892-0100.

Massive deaths leave the survivors numb

DEATH AND DYING — CHALLENGE AND CHANGE XIV: DEATH, WAR, AND THE HUMAN CONDITION

This is the fourteenth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Death and Dying: Challenge and Change." The series is presented by the University Extension program. Robert Jay Lifton discusses the impact of holocausts and war on survivors as well as victims. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

XIV: DEATH, WAR, AND THE HUMAN CONDITION

By ROBERT JAY LIFTON

Shortly after 8 a.m. on a serene and cloudless August morning in 1945, an American B-29 bomber dropped the first atomic bomb ever used against a civilian population.

Those among the survivors closest to the center in Hiroshima recalled a sudden flash, searing heat, being knocked off their feet, the distance, and finding themselves pinned under debris or simply awakening after an indeterminate period.

The bomb had hit its target with deadly accuracy, destroying all buildings within a two mile radius of the center of the city and 60 percent of those within another mile. Although even today the exact number of deaths is unknown, conservative estimates range from 100,000 to 200,000 or more.

All of Hiroshima had been instantaneously overwhelmed by one of the most terrifying calamities in human history.

Survivors of the initial blast remembered the ghastly images they had witnessed as if everyone in the world were suddenly dead. They became uncertain about whether they themselves were alive or dead, or whether the world itself had come to an end.

They moved like automata through the grotesque landscape, unable to feel anything. They wondered whether anything would ever grow again out of the ashes, and over the subsequent 34 years they have never lost their fear of dying from delayed radiation effects.

PSYCHIC NUMBING.

No one in Hiroshima could fully absorb these horrors, and at the time the bomb fell, a psychological defense called forth by many was simply the cessation of feeling.

They described that experience to me as "a paralysis of the mind" and as becoming "insensitive to human death." I call this defense "psychic numbing."

They also retained vivid images of vast destruction, of something close to the end of the world, or what may be described as "imagery of extermination."

These psychological reactions are not limited to holocaust survivors; they are universal in the nuclear age.

The very existence of nuclear weapons and the experience of Hiroshima and Nagasaki have placed all of us in a state of existential death. And our psychic response to the threat further interfere with our capacity to deal with it in a life-preserving fashion.

Our numbness in response to massive death spreads over our relationships to others, into all aspects of our lives. Indeed, the sense of meaning and even the violent fervor of the 1970s may be partly understood as attempts to break through this numbed paralysis.

Political leaders experience and exploit this pervasive fear of extermination, pursuing an illusion of security around all-powerful nuclear arsenals.

For them and for people who have not yet been deceived as experts, not only of total destruction, but of equally total creation — a deity one must depend upon and even a source of salvation. We may then speak of the perverse pseudoreligion of "nuclearism."

Related forms of nuclear worship occur everywhere. Nations throughout the world spread all their power and wealth as if to deny access to the deity. Those positive themselves to be "second rate" not only militarily but in a less tangible but nonetheless important psychological sense.

The nations which possess most of the nuclear weapons encourage those forms of nuclearism by their own example: their overreliance on weapons and their lack of concern for dismantling their own stockpiles, even as they deplore the very real dangers of nuclear proliferation at arms control conferences.

MEANINGLESS DEATH

Nuclear weapons confront us with a kind of death that can have no meaning. There is no such thing in nature as dying heroically for a great cause, in the service of a belief or a nation, but only the prospect of dying anonymously and absurdly.

This imagery of meaningless extermination impairs our sense of historical connectedness, out ties to those who have gone before and those who will live on after us.

Traditionally, we have sought symbolic kinds of immortality: biologically, through the sense of living on in our children and their children; creatively, in the products of our work; religiously, in the idea of spiritually conquering death; and naturally, in experiencing rebirth through eternal nature.

Today, all these are severely threatened, thrown into question by the mere anticipation of nuclear holocaust. They still exist for us, but with disturbing doubts.

Hence the intense focus, over the last two decades, upon a fifth form of immortality: transcendence — the classical quest of various strands of mysticism, the search for a dreamlike, Nirvana state so intense that time and death disappear.

In our contemporary world, this is sought through drugs, intensified sexuality, or various forms of meditation.

But most people remain uncertain about larger human connections, and feel themselves "wired in" to a "global village" whose boundaries are importantly defined by shared vulnerability to technological destruction.

The threat of nuclear extinction even overshadows the meaning of death in our lives around death. Those rituals serve important functions, transforming private death into public event.

Thus, the deaths of soldiers will create martyrs and heroes for the state, while the death of outsiders may be justified as righteous slaughter of the state's enemies. Public funerals reinforce existing value systems and justify death at odds that may otherwise be tragically meaningless.

These political death rituals are evident in the various nationalistic conflicts in Africa and the Middle East.

But these conflicts are in turn framed by struggles between the nuclear powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, so that small wars become associated with the danger of escalation to nuclear extermination.

The deaths of heroes and martyrs, and ordinary people, too, are tainted by a nagging sense that whatever they lived and died for could be suddenly wiped out by forces fully beyond their control.

POLENTICS OF DESTRUCTION

The politics of the death-haunted global village of the nuclear age can thus become destructive in the extreme.

Political leaders, through appeals to nationalisms or to a "cleaning" of the world, may contribute to the kind of numbness toward the consequences of the nuclear age — and above all, toward what happens at the other end of nuclear weapons.

The numbness is perhaps greatest in those who create and anticipate using the weapons — such as scientists, engineers, and military and political leaders.

The euphemistic language of nuclearism — "nuclear materials," "nuclear exchange," "counterforce" — not only obscures the consequences of such weapons, but increases the numbness itself. Such language may also hide still darker impulses toward using weapons to overcome anxieties about them — filling it over with.

Are we then, inexorably condemned to live out our own image of historical extinction — or rather, to die out in accordance with that image?

If I thought so, I would not bother to explore these disturbing consequences of nuclear weapons. Both haunting and true is a phrase of the American poet Theodore Roethke: "In a dark time, the eye begins to see."

The kind of vision we need includes full confrontation with the weapons themselves — with what they do, cause, and mean. Through such immersion into our own particular purpose, we may begin to see the world more clearly and set about it.

But to do that we need to explore the full gamut of the pseudoreligion nuclearism — association with a search for grace and glory, with technical-scientific transcendence, apocalyptic destruction, visions of personal and national power, and close identification with the weapons themselves.

By naming the disease and studying its effects, we take at least a beginning step toward overcoming it.

Tavern is sued

A two-count lawsuit seeking a total of $35,000 has been filed against Victor Reznak and Victor Tavern, 200 Madison Avenue, in Madison County Circuit Court on behalf of four members of the Donald W. Gallia family.

The suit alleges that on Oct. 28, 1978, the tavern was sold to Donald Gallia and son, Richard Mousette, who then got into a fight with Donald Gallia and cut his abdomen with a knife, gravely injuring him.

Gallia is seeking $15,000 in damages from the tavern, and $20,000 from his son, Richard Mousette, and son, Joseph, 4, and Donald Gallia Jr., 2, are seeking $20,000 from the tavern for their losses from the incident, including loss of money from the father's employment.

Warms against gas storage

"Don't make bad news worse. The news of impending and continuing gas shortages lead to even greater frustration. People begin to store gasoline at home around the house."

This warning was given by Charles F. Cliggett, manager of the Illinois FAIR Plan Association, a non-profit organization that provides insurance and homeowners coverage for urban area dwellers.

Cliggett said reports from California, where gasoline shortages first hit, included personal injury and property damage. People began to store gasoline at home and fill their car tanks at home.

"Eleven persons were injured in three different fires in one California gas station in a three-day period," he said, adding that there were hospitalizations in burn centers and two of them have been in critical condition."

Cliggett pointed out that some of the measures people took to fill their tanks at home were less than careful. One story involved a person using a vacuum cleaner to siphon gas. Another was using an electric drill plugged into a house outlet

Financial woes mount

A mounting financial problem which may result in paydays for employees of the Metro-East Sanitary District until tax revenue is received next fall has developed because of a possible cutback in reimbursement funds from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Trustees of the sanitary district board discussed in a meeting Friday information that a $200,000 reimbursement for the Cahokia sanitary sewer line has been cut back to $60,000 and even that amount is under review.

The sanitary district is without funds now, and without aid from the reimbursements is not likely to meet payrolls and other costs until tax funds become available, possibly in September, a district official said.

The board a week ago approved a payroll of $18,858 in addition to a $5,800 payment for a Cahokia sewer repair job, and $4,800 in overtime. Payment has been held up until funds become available.

Board members also discussed the possibility of using scrip payrolls.

Scrip would be taken up by the banks for a fee charged against the sanitary district. No action has been taken on this plan.

In the board meeting Friday, trustees also confirmed that A. Wendell Wheadon, former executive director of the district, has been terminated from his job. Wheadon announced verbally a month ago that he was resigning the position of director of the district and has not appeared at the district offices, although he reportedly told several persons he had not resigned.

On June 13, the board voted on a motion that unless Wheadon remained in a legal position he would be dismissed by order of the board.

Trustees noted no letter was received Friday and district attorneys ruled that the June 13 action was valid.

It was also ruled that Wheadon was terminated from his job.

Runs from police, abandons vehicle

Noticing a 1964 Ford travel through a red traffic light at Nameoki and Pontoon roads and then weave from lane to lane while continuing north on Nameoki, an officer gave chase and halted the car at Bremen Avenue at 2:55 a.m. Saturday.

The operator of the vehicle jumped from the car and ran south in an alley off Nameoki with the officer chasing him on foot.

The fleeing driver doubled back, crossed Nameoki Road to the railroad tracks. The officer fired a warning shot into the air at this point, but this also failed to halt the man.

He disappeared on the west side of the tracks into a field. A search of the area failed to uncover the man. The vehicle was impounded.

What else do you do with a 90 degree day?

WHEN THE TEMPERATURE RISES to the 90-degree mark, the thoughts of many Granite Cityans turn to the water. The pool at Wilson Park provides an excellent way to cool off.

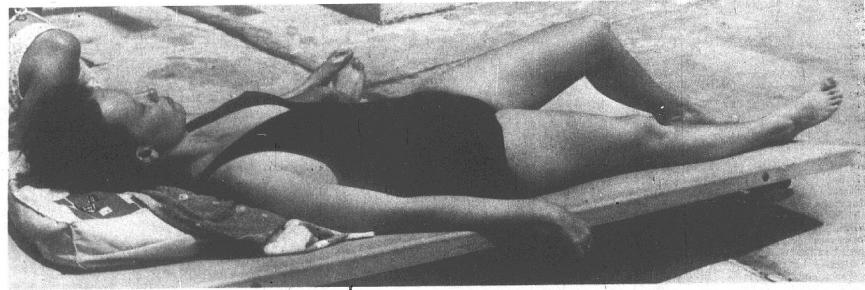

Of course the sun worshipers are out, as was Barbara Moniz (at right), using the pool to cool the body. Last Thursday was a great day for those who enjoy toasting themselves under a hot summer sun.

Little Tabitha Milam, (above right), and her mother, Mrs. Sheila Milam, had themselves a great time in the kiddie pool. Tabitha was learning to swim, with Mom's help.

Everyone at the pool that day seemed to be having a great time, and credit must be given to the Park District for providing such a beautiful setting for fun in the sun.

We can definitely conclude that summer is upon us and that a day at the pool is a sure-fire way to enjoy the hot days ahead.

Tests for lead symptoms begin

The lead poisoning screening is visiting the Venice and Madison area today and Tuesday and will test children in the Granite City, Pontoon and Mitchell areas the remainder of this week. The screening program is aimed at children 9 months through 6 years.

Special emphasis is placed on screening youngsters who live in homes built before 1940 which may have chipping paint or broken plaster inside or outside the dwelling.

Three primary groups are considered the most likely to lead poisoning cases, but these are not the only people who could be affected:

Children under 6 years old, especially if they live in older deteriorating houses.

Adults in homes where lead paint is produced and especially their children.

Homeowners renovating houses originally constructed before 1940.

Last fall, 18 positive cases were detected from a total of 254 children screened here.

The screening program is being sponsored here by the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens, with the cooperation of local organizations.

The lead poisoning screening van was donated by the Illinois Knights of Columbus.

Among those volunteering their services to the week-long program in the Quad-Cities are the Venice Jaycees, Tri-Cities Council 109, Knights of Columbus, Davenport County Urban League, Madison County Association for Retarded Citizens, Tri-City Association for the Retarded and several individuals.

Bill Smith, president of the Venice PTA and a volunteer, said treats for children undergoing the screening tests are being donated by McDonald's Restaurants and Burger Chef Restaurants.

The lead poisoning screening van will be at these locations and general areas on the following days:

Venice—today at 11:30 a.m.; West Madison Memorial Center; 3 p.m.; Lee Wright Homes, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Tourist Inn, 5 p.m.; and Madison and Hampden streets.

SIUE salary hikes OK'd

Salary increase plans for employees of Southern Illinois University for the fiscal year beginning July 1, were approved Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

The increases will be based generally on the funds appropriated by the state legislature, according to plans prepared by various employee groups.

In a separate resolution, the board authorized the chief executive officers of the SIUE System to implement pay adjustments in various units, effective July 1, based upon the appropriation bill ultimately enacted into law.

University officers said they expect the appropriation bill will permit salary increases in the seven percent range. They also indicated some reallocated monies may be available for merit-equity increase considerations.

Edwardsburg groups involved in developing the salary increase plans included the University Senate, the University Council, Staff Advisory Council, and the Academic Staff Administrative Staff Welfare Committee, as well as the president, vice president, deans, directors and the Office of Student Development and Financial Assistance.

At SIUE at Carbondale, salary increase plans were developed by the president after receiving recommendations from the President's Budget Advisory Committee, which included representation from all constituencies.

Glen Carbon splits double-dip with Trenton

By KEVIN ALLEN

TRENTON — In Glen Carbon's American Legion Baseball double header yesterday, Glen Carbon's hitters had Trenton's outfielders shagging hits in the cemetery beyond the outfield in the first game.

But in the nightcap, it was Glen Carbon which looked lifeless.

Glen Carbon won the opener 16-1, but lost the second game 4-3 in eight innings.

Glen Carbon pounded out 14 hits including back-to-back home runs in the fourth inning of the first game, but Trenton's Rob Moffatt ended the second game with home run of his own in the eighth inning of the second contest.

How does the same team look so overpowering, then not so powerful? "We just didn't care as much in the second game," said Glen Carbon's Bob Ford as he stacked up the equipment.

when Tom Greco, who reached first on a choice and Dick Avall, who had singled his way on, scored on Dick Avall's single.

Other than that, it was frustration.

For a while, it looked as if the four runs would be enough for Glen Carbon to win the game and sweep the double header. But in the fourth, Trenton put together four consecutive hits for three runs.

The big hit of the night was a triple by Trenton's Dave Medders, which scored Moffatt and Tom Detmer. Medders scored via an error by Avall. Trenton then scored in the fifth. Bob Krasner led off with a stolen base, second was wild-pitched to third, and scored on Detmer's bouncing grounder to short.

The tie lasted until the eighth, when Moffatt, having off contact with the second pitch of the inning, and game for Robertson in relief, and sent it over the center fielder's head. He circled the bases.

For all the missed chances of the second game, one might conclude Glen Carbon

Tri-City falls from division lead in loss

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

CHICAGO — Ask any baseball coach who's put it all together, who knows the turning point, who can spot the keys, who can feel the momentum, turn, and he'll tell you, if he's really up on his clichés, "Good pitching stops good hitting."

He might add, if he's talking chatty, "No hitting stops everything."

After Tri-City lost to Glen Carbon, 3-0 Friday, in American Legion baseball, Tri-City's coach, Kirk Champion avoided any well-worn sayings, but the sentiment was the same.

"We haven't scored in the last 17 innings," Champion said. "We're a bunting type of team, but if you don't get base runners you can't do much bunting."

But even a bunch full of good hitters such as Glen Carbon can boast, have slow days, and Friday was one of them.

As the score indicates, it was ultimately the pitchers who decided the contest. Then and the defenses.

Tri-City starter Dave Weil deserved better fate. In seven innings he gave up six hits, but even that total is deceiving.

Weil allowed three straight hits to the first three Glen Carbon batters in the game. The result of the three singles was one run, scored by Glen Carbon's lead-off man, Bob Batey.

After that, Weil allowed only three more Glen Carbon hits, and one of those was questionable.

It came in the Glen Carbon's fourth inning. In that inning, Glen Carbon scored its final two runs.

Dennis Page led off and reached base on a Bob Sykes error. Larry Burns followed with a sacrifice bunt attempt. Tri-City's third baseman, Jeff Parker overran while charging in for the play.

Another error followed, filling the bases. Then two sacrifice flies by Glen Carbon's Greg Faulkner and Batey brought home Page and Burns.

But all know that "baseball is a game of inches," and a few inches in the right direction might produce among the numbers three, four, five, and six batters in the Tri-City order. Champion sees it as a bad trend.

"We've not been hitting very well in the middle of our lineup," he said. "We need for our guys to explode in the middle. We've got to win games 3-1. You can get a slugging contest, we're just not terribly overpowering."

Weil allowed only two Tri-City hits.

Don't suggest to Glen Carbon's coach Art Jovi that this was also not typical of his team, because the Glen Carbon is all hit and no pitch.

"We've got Steve Doty and Faulkner for starters," Jovi said, "and Bob Ford, Mike Hubbard, and Keith Burton for relievers. That's five really good pitchers. That's not bad."

Faulkner certainly proved Jovi's point. He walked two batters — only four Tri-City runners got as far as second base. The farthest any Tri-City runner went was third. That was Blake Ambush, whose triple in the sixth was one of the two hits for his team.

Ambush's was the only hit produced among the numbers three, four, five, and six batters in the Tri-City order. Champion sees it as a bad trend.

Don't suggest to Glen Carbon's coach Art Jovi that this was also not typical of his team, because the Glen Carbon is all hit and no pitch.

"We've got Steve Doty and Faulkner for starters," Jovi said, "and Bob Ford, Mike Hubbard, and Keith Burton for relievers. That's five really good pitchers. That's not bad."

Faulkner certainly proved Jovi's point. He walked two batters — only four Tri-City runners got as far as second base. The farthest any Tri-City runner went was third. That was Blake Ambush, whose triple in the sixth was one of the two hits for his team.

Ambush's was the only hit produced among the numbers three, four, five, and six batters in the Tri-City order. Champion sees it as a bad trend.

St. M-M advances

GRANITE CITY — St. Margaret Mary's soccer team of boys age 10 and under won the right Wednesday to represent Southern Illinois in the Illinois Youth Soccer Association State Finals with a 4-1 victory over St. Elizabeth, also of Granite City.

St. Elizabeth will also advance to the state finals, by virtue of finishing second in the district tournament.

All-stars raise $12,000

ST. LOUIS — The recent Illinois-Missouri all-star basketball game raised $12,000 for the benefit of Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children; it was announced here recently. The game pitted the best graduating seniors from the Illinois side of the St. Louis area, against the Missouri stars at the Checkerboard.

The Illinois boys defeated the Missouri squad 96-92, while the Missouri girls beat Illinois 88-80.

Meyers named IBCA official

NEW ATHENS — There will be at least one Southern Illinois official at this year's annual Illinois Basketball Coaches Association all-star basketball game in Peoria.

Jim Meyer of New Athens has been selected as one of the floor officials for the games, which will be played July 7 at Robertson Field.

House in Peoria. He was one of only six officials chosen. The games will pit the best seniors in northern Illinois against those from Southern Illinois in a Class AA-A-B-C game. There will be three floor officials in each game.

Last year, Russ Chappell of Granite City was a floor official at the IBCA affair.

GC golfers do well

ALTON — Three Granite City junior golfers did well in a recent Alton Parks and Recreation Department tournament. Linda Holder and Chris Anderson finished in the top three in their respective age divisions.

Robertson finished second in the 17-18 year old division with a seven-over par 77 at Alton's Rock Springs Course. Anderson finished one stroke behind him at 78.

In the 13-14 year old division, Anderson finished second with an 80.

Greg Jones from Jerseyville won the 13-14 division with an 82, while Scott Spomer of Godfrey was the 17-18 winner with a 73.

Men's tourney

MILLSTADT — A 24-team double elimination men's slow-pitch softball tournament will be held here July 8-9.

The tournament will be sponsored by the "Millstadt Fertilizers" and will be held at Our Lady of Assumption in Millstadt. Team interested will be required to pay a $60 entry fee. They should call Jim Mueh at 476-3735, Tom Datsun at 476-3332 or Dan Holgrieve at 476-1496 for further information.

'Buzz' to SEMO

WOOD RIVER — Jim "Buzz" Logan, a former basketball standout at Wood River High School, has signed a letter of intent to play next season at Southeastern Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau.

A 6-4 forward, Logan averaged 23.5 points a game last season for wood River's Oilers, who finished the season with a 20-7 record and their first regional championship in 35 years.

SIU chosen as volleyball site

CARBONDALE — Southern Illinois University-Carbondale has been chosen as the association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (IAIW) as the host school for the Division I, 1979 IAIW National Volleyball Championships. SIUE was chosen over Utah State and the University of California-Santa Barbara for this, the eleventh renewal of the college classic. The top 20 IAIW women's volleyball teams will seek to dethrone Utah-State, the defending national champions, in the tournament, December 6-8, at the 10,000-seat SIU Arena.

This marks the first time ever that SIU-C has hosted an IAIW national championship. It is only the second time in the history of IAIW that a college and a midwestern university has conducted the national tournament. The College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio, held the tournament in 1972.

IAIW is the national governing body for women's intercollegiate sports in the United States. It encompasses more than 300 member institutions and offers 26 national championships in 14 different sports.

Dr. Charlotte West, a past IAIW national president and current women's athletic director at SIU-C, commented on Carbondale being awarded the tournament bid.

"We are delighted that such an entertaining and exciting sports season is coming to our school," West said. "Volleyball is fast becoming one of the most popular spectator sports around. Our tournament will feature Olympic-level competition and even though the competition will be done to make it the most successful championship ever."

With the exception of the first two IAIW volleyball championships won by Little Rock and Texas of Alton, Texas — western schools have dominated the title competition. UCLA has won three national titles (1971, 74, 75), UCLA-Long Beach (1972, 73) and the University of Southern California (1976, 77) have copped two each.

On the Road

Chris Bugnitz, a 20-year-old distance runner at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is on the road each day, every day of the week. She runs 10 miles each day.

Running that many miles can be exhausting, but Bugnitz believes it keeps her in shape and is necessary to build her speed.

She needs it. The elementary education major from Florissant, Mo., has competed in eight 1,500 meter races for SIUE this season and will run 12 races next year, including four indoors. Her time is down to 4.47 minutes, ranking her fifth in Illinois in distance running this season and placing her in a class with the fastest women athletes in the midwest.

Crawford takes on extra-duty

Changes uniforms every Sunday in I-C

By TOM SCHOKER for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — What could be less strenuous, more monotonous and just plain boring than to stand out in the sun during the summer in a team uniform? That's what it is to be a baseball player.

Being a baseball player seems to be a stand-still type of sporting activity. What could be done to enhance a players' involvement in the game? The answer is back coaching, which requires a special knowledge of the game to make decisions, prepare the type of line-up that will get results, and produce a winning team.

Even more challenging would be the role of a player-coach. Ken Crawford knows exactly what it feels like. He is the coach of the Granite City Legion team.

Crawford took over the reins of Mitchell this season. He succeeded Art Jovi who had been coach for a number of years. When asked how he acquired this demanding position, Crawford was simple. "The team asked me if I would like to be coach and I said yeah," Crawford said that there was only one reason he accepted the assignment. "With no coach, there wouldn't be a team," said Crawford.

As a coach, Crawford has a 3-7 record. With that ten games of experience, he explained why it is like to coach a team. "There are a lot more responsibilities. It's harder than it looks," he said. "Before, the guys on the team were just my teammates and I would go out and play. Now I am getting involved in everything else."

Now I have to really know who I am playing with." Crawford also found out still another pressure that he had to contend with. "As a coach on the team and the pitcher on the team, the coach's job is that I will be in the game if I am earlier in a game if I feel tired," said Crawford. "Before, the coach would come to the mound and ask me, now I have to ask myself." The taste of coaching has whetted his appetite. Will Crawford enjoy it enough to stay with it? "I'll always enjoy playing, but for coaching, it's a challenge and I think I will stay with it for awhile," said Crawford. "Becoming respected and well liked enough to be asked to coach a team just doesn't happen every day." Ken Crawford began his baseball playing career at age seven where he picked the position of pitcher. He continued his pitching days throughout high school. Crawford began playing baseball in Granite City South in 1974 where he pitched for four years, lettering his senior year under Coach Babe Champion.

Wanting to continue in baseball other than during the school year, Crawford picked up on the Venice Legion team. He moved into the Inter-City League with the now folded Thomas squad. He switched to Mitchell in the summer of 1976 and wanted to be on a winning team. Crawford has pitched for Mitchell ever since.

Even though he only plays on Sunday, Crawford has been able to get to the ball park. He is presently working for the Granite City Police Department. "There are a few guys on the force that don't like changing shifts and working days at different times," said Crawford. "Getting my Sunday free is a real problem." Crawford has been working with the police department for five years.

From a coaching standpoint Crawford has high hopes for his squad. "I really want to show some people what we got in the second half of the season," said Crawford. "We have lost a lot of close games and mostly by freak plays and errors."

Crawford pointed out that he has a strong hitting team but the defense was weak. "We just weren't getting the breaks," said Crawford. "He feels very strongly that the players he acquired from the Granite City North state team will help his chances. "When you get guys like Bill Raley, Mike Raley, and Lance Burns you have to feel good. Our pitching staff has improved also with the addition of Doug Rains and Terry Page," he said.

If things turn out like Crawford expects them to and the team gains the confidence he has, Mitchell could be in the Inter-City playoffs.

List Blackburn College as historical site

Blackburn College in Carlinville, Ill., has been declared an American Presbyterian and Reformed Historical Site. Word was received at the college recently along with a plaque which indicates that Blackburn is historical site No. 178 and is registered as such by the Presbyterian Historical Society of Philadelphia, Pa. Presbyterians and Reformed churches have a common background in the Reformation.

The college was founded by Dr. Gideon Blackburn, a Presbyterian minister who appeared before the General Assembly of the American Presbyterian Church sometime during the period of 1800 to 1803 to make an appeal for missionary work among the Cherokee Indians.

He came to central Illinois in 1833 and founded a theological seminary in 1837. There was considerable delay in the starting of the seminary due to an economic depression and a definite opposition from Gibson Blackburn, who had owned Blackburn Theological Seminary from 1837 to 1869. The name was changed to Blackburn University, the current legal name. March of 1869, and the first class was graduated from Blackburn College in June of 1870.

HUD to reconsider Venice housing

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has asked that the 136-unit housing project be resubmitted to them, Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said last week.

A delegation headed by Mayor Echols met with HUD officials Wednesday in Chicago.

Attending the meeting in addition to the mayor were W.A. Thomas, community project director for the project; Anthony F. Samson, the developer; Willie Walker, executive director for the Madison County Urban League, and Michael Glass, regional director for the Urban

Meeting with the delegation were Elmer Binford, area director for HUD and William Leggett, executive assistant to Binford.

HUD has asked for more detailed information in regard to such areas as noise in the general area, railroad noise and problems and more information in reference to the project being located in the flood plain.

"I feel the HUD officials deal very fairly with us. They have certain standards and guidelines that must conform to and I feel that should be no real problems after we get some more information," Echols said.

Property owned by the city of Bissell and Klein streets, 8.94 acres, was formerly occupied by Johns-Manville and will be sold for about $100,000 to the developer, if the project is approved.

Mayor Echols said he is not sure how long it would be before the revised project would be submitted again to HUD, but indicated that the consultants will begin collecting information immediately.

The housing development has been opposed by Madison city and school officials.

A course on collective bargaining will be offered at Belleville Area College for the first time this fall.

Robert Mize, who has many years of experience in labor relations, will be the instructor. Mize, formerly a compensated worker with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, helped resolve thousands of labor disputes in both the public and private sectors over a multi-state area, according to Belleville Area College.

Department Chairman James Cox, who called Mize, "eminently qualified to teach all aspects of labor relations and collective bargaining," said that there is no one best way for management or unions to bargain collectively because the process is of such a diverse nature. However, he points out, experience has shown basic principles to be used in all types of bargaining. The BAC course will outline these principles. The course is designed for the practitioner in collective bargaining as well as those who have completed a basic course in labor relations. It emphasizes the practical approach to collective bargaining and includes such topics as obligations of both sides, preparing for negotiations, negotiations at the table, grievance procedures, and the arbitration process, proper writing of contract language, and private and public sector bargaining.

Registration is underway at the main campus of Belleville Area College, 2001 Atvile Road, by telephone from July 30 through Aug. 10. The course is listed as Business 233, section 01. Collective bargaining is a one-credit course. It will meet Tuesdays evenings from 7 to 9:45 in Room D307 at Belleville East High School. The first class will meet Aug. 21.

Uniform free lunch guidelines

A single standard of eligibility for free meals and free milk will be the national school lunch and special milk programs will go into effect July 1.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced a new regulation permitting the change.

The regulation implements Public Law 95-627, which provides that children of families whose income is no higher than 125 percent of the establishment's income, poverty level, are eligible for free meals and for free milk in schools which provide it.

Although states previously could set eligibility from 100 to 125 percent of the guidelines, virtually all participants received free benefits at the 125 percent level. Under current guidelines, a family of four, to be eligible, should earn no more than $8,110 a year.

Under the school food programs, states received additional financial assistance for each meal served free or at reduced price to eligible children. In January, 37 percent of the 26 million meals served daily were provided free.

The new regulation was published in the June 8 Federal Register and becomes effective July 1.

Series on area's history and future

The Illinois Humanities Council at Champaign has announced the award of a grant of $28,377 to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to support a project entitled, "East Side Story," directed by Edward Hudlin.

The announcement of the award was made by Dr. Marvin L. Vawter, executive director of the Illinois Humanities Council.

According to Dr. Vawter, SIUE has planned a series of three one-hour television programs which will focus on the past, present, and future of the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area.

"The series is designed to offer the citizens of this area a greater appreciation of their heritage, a deeper understanding of the complex issues that concern the community, and a forum for the discussion of the humanistic issues involved in the public policy decisions the community must make for the 21st century," Vawter said.

"In this program and all future programs eligible for support by the Illinois Humanities Council, emphasis is placed on programs of an educational or enriching nature of concern to the humanities, or ones that offer the resources of the humanities to help answer the questions of value that underlie most of the great decisions in contemporary society," he added.

Grant guidelines and forms may be obtained by writing the Illinois Humanities Council, 201 W. Springfield, Suite 205, Champaign, Ill. 61820.

The Madison City Council enacted an ordinance last week establishing the grade for railroad crossings.

The ordinance restricts any variance from grade level to no more than one inch.

Concern over the railroads' desire to have a three-inch grade was discussed by the aldermen during a passage of the ordinance.

The Illinois Terminal Railroad has advertised for bids in a major repair project on the five street crossings in Madison.

The council approved the partial blocking of Lee Avenue for the annual St. Mary picnic to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Vasil Graville, city health inspector, said the people are in general cooperating with him in keeping weeds and grass cut.

Graville also said, "I want to thank the Press-Record for putting in that picture of the little puppy I had picked up. We got a good home for him and the people are cooperating more about keeping their dogs tied or fenced."

Mayor Sasyk reappointed John Bridick as a police commissioner and Porter H. Cawley to the police pension board.

ENERGY WORKSHOP

Science teachers from elementary to college level classes in the area will begin a two-week general energy education workshop at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville today, sponsored by the department of physics. Thomas Baldwin, physics professor, said the subjects will range from local energy problems to energy conservation in general.

The Illinois Humanities Council has announced the award of a grant of $6,000 to the Lovejoy Creative Education Foundation to support a project entitled, "Progress by Participation," directed by Robert Lovejoy.

The announcement of the award was made by Dr. Marvin L. Vawter, executive director of the Illinois Humanities Council.

The Lovejoy Creative Education Foundation has planned a program which includes a one-hour drama documentary film, directed by Charles Guggenheim, on the issue of energy in the Missouri-Illinois region.

In 200 town hall meetings on both sides of the river, citizens will discuss issues raised by the film and ballot on their concerns.

"In this program and all future programs eligible for support by the Illinois Humanities Council, emphasis is placed on programs of an educational or enriching nature of concern to the humanities, or ones that offer the resources of the humanities to help answer the questions of value that underlie most of the great decisions in contemporary society," Vawter said.

Grant guidelines and forms may be obtained by writing the Illinois Humanities Council, 201 W. Springfield, Suite 205, Champaign, Ill. 61820.

People may be next endangered species, study shows

Typical families are having fewer children, as is clear to school officials here and elsewhere, but overpopulation remains a huge concern on a worldwide basis.

The world's population will reach the 5 billion mark by 1987, and there will be one person for every year of the earth's age.

What does this astronomical figure mean to the future of the human race? That question is examined in a new publication from the National Wildlife Federation entitled, "People: An Endangered Species?"

"The rapid growth in the world's population is primarily the result of a dramatic reduction in deaths, due to improved public health measures and food production techniques," explains the 16-page booklet. Since 1940, the world's death rate has been cut in half while the birthrate has remained essentially the same. As a result, there are now about 4.2 billion people on this planet.

Can the earth support another 800 million? It's possible, says the NWF booklet, but only if there is a standard of living much lower than that of most Americans. Experts calculate that the world could support only 700 million people — about 18 percent of the present population — at the American standard of living.

"People: An Endangered Species?" outlines some of the problems associated with population growth around the world, such as:

1. Food shortage. About 500 million people in the world are severely malnourished, according to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. And the demand for food worldwide is expected to double by the year 2000. Meanwhile, millions of acres of fertile farmland are lost each year because of the growth of cities, erosion, formation of deserts, salinization, deforestation, overgrazing and dam construction.

2. Pollution. Air pollution is a problem in every major city in the world. And water pollution is often aggravated by techniques used to increase food production — runoff of animal wastes, feedlots, buildup of chemical fertilizer in water supplies, and the use of toxic pesticides. Two-thirds of the people in poor countries lack access to safe water.

3. Wildlife losses. Through its numbers and ecologically-destructive activities, the human species threatens the survival of thousands of plants and animals. About 300 species of birds are having fewer children, as is clear to school officials here and elsewhere, but overpopulation remains a huge concern on a worldwide basis.

4. Energy scarcity. The world's finite fossil-fuel reserves are being depleted by rapid population growth coupled with increased and often wasteful consumption.

5. Unemployment. The labor force in developing countries is projected by the International Labor Organization to expand by 91 percent between 1970 and 2000, while in the developed countries it will increase by 33 percent. Applicants will far outnumber jobs.

Of the 4.2 billion who now inhabit the earth, if all the people were to stand side by side they would stretch 2,386,360 miles long — nearly 92 times the earth's circumference. The world's population is growing by about 72 million people annually — more than Mexico's entire population.

Nearly 90 percent of the population growth is taking place in the developing countries, most of which are growing at 2 or 3 percent annually.

Mexico now adds more people to its population annually than the United States, and Brazil adds more than the Soviet Union.

By improving social and economic conditions, it is believed, smaller families can be encouraged.

"Providing women with education and career opportunities opens up alternative role options to childbearing," suggest the NWF booklet. In addition, affluent countries are expected to make a concerted effort to restrict resource and energy consumption.

Americans, comprising five percent of the world's population, use about one-third of the world's annual production of renewable resources and energy. In fact, Americans waste more energy than the total amount used by the poorer half of the world's population.

Perhaps what's needed most to conquer the overpopulation problem is wisdom, says the NWF publication. After all, the human species is a relative newcomer to the earth, having been here only about two million years, and has a lot to learn. In contrast, dinosaurs, thought to be poorly adapted to their environment, dominated the earth for 140 million years.

As "People: An Endangered Species?" points out, "If we do not keep our numbers in balance with the earth's ability to support human life, the human species could follow the dinosaur into extinction."

Police are investigating a break-in at the home of a woman customer and became belligerent with employees, who tried to question him about the incident.

Police were taken to Madison City Jail and was released at 5 a.m. Sunday on payment of $5 cash bond.

Michael Steven Perry, 26, of Casseyville, was arrested at 1:45 a.m. Sunday at the Bistro Lounge, 1316 Madison Avenue, after he allegedly kicked a woman customer and became belligerent with employees, who tried to question him about the incident.

Perry was taken to Madison City Jail and was released at 5 a.m. Sunday on payment of $5 cash bond.

While the lower tax rates are a direct result of the higher valuations, many taxing districts will be able to collect funds they were unable to collect before because of tax rate limitations.

This year's property assessments were increased substantially by county assessing officials under a state mandate to fix all valuations at 33.3 percent of fair cash value. The controversial assessment problems resulted in a late completion of the assessment and extension of tax rates. The collection period already is about a month behind.

Exceptions to the generally lower tax rates are in Nameoki, Venice and Chouteau Township where taxpayers living in the area where new property taxes are being imposed will pay an additional rate of $2,024 per $100 assessed value to meet the first-year payments due for bonds and interests.

The total combined tax rate of the seven major tax districts of Nameoki Township this year, including the new sewer rate, is $7,856 per $100 assessed valuation, up $2,167 over the combined rate of $5,927 of the six other districts last year. The sewer tax will be collected for Special Service Area 1. The service area is not a part of the total billing last year.

Since Nameoki Township has a higher valuation of $52,214,007 this year, up from $47,915,524 last year, the combined tax rate of $7,856 will result in a total billing of $41,498,183 compared with a bill of $28,898,183 on the basis of the 1979 year's rate of $5,689.

The application of tax rates vary considerably in all townships. Taxes are extended against all taxpayers living within any given tax district.

Tax rates are determined by the number of homeowners within the township.

In Chouteau Township, the sewer rate also is applicable to many taxpayers for the first time this year.

Chouteau Township residents living in the area where sewers are being built will pay taxes on a combined rate of $7,965 compared with a rate of $5,927 for the township's seven other major taxing bodies last year. The combined rate for those districts, excluding the sewer tax this year, amounts to $5,927.

The sewer tax in Chouteau area including the sewer area will be billed for a total of $2,696,252, compared with a billing of $1,916,687 last year on the basis of the 1979 rate of $5,927.

Granite City Township this year has a combined rate of $7,845 per $100 assessed valuation for its seven major tax districts, down from last year's combined rate of $6,953.

Since its valuation was increased this year to $186,884,379, a rise of $10 million over last year's $176,315,264, the total billing on the basis of the new rate would amount to $12,792,330 for all seven tax districts. The billing on the basis of last year's higher tax rate applied against the lower $176 million valuation resulted in a billing of $10,947,132.

Another example of lower rates is Granite City, which has a Granite City School District 9 which has a rate of $3.78 per $100 assessed valuation, down from $4.44 last year.

The school district's assessed valuation increased this year to $7,299,456 from $22,024,001 last year. The new rate applied against the higher assessment will produce a billing of $9,344,519, compared with a billing of $6,912 produced by last year's rate.

The city of Madison has a new rate this year of $2,057, down from $2,172. Applied against a new higher assessment of $15,758,012, Madison

COST CUTTER SPECIAL

HONEYDEWS

Each
A FULLY MATURE HONEYDEW SHOULD BE CREAMY WHITE OR PALE YELLOW, EVEN ON THE UNDERSIDE. FRUIT SHOULD BE LARGE, AT LEAST 6 1/2"-7" DIAMETER, WEIGH ABOUT 5-7-LBS. TEST THE AROMA. SINCE A RIPE HONEYDEW HAS A DISTINCT AND PLEASING FRAGRANCE, A VERY SLIGHT OIL FILM IS GENERALLY NOTICED ON THE OUTSIDE. IF THE FRUIT IS NOT RIPE, IT CAN BE KEPT AT ROOM TEMPERATURE. THE SIZE, WEIGHT AND COLOR REQUIREMENTS, LET IT STAND IN A WARM ROOM FOR SEVERAL HOURS (OR DAYS) UNTIL THE AROMA AND SOFTNESS AT THE STEM AND BLOSSOM END APPEAR. HONEYDEW IS A FAIR SOURCE OF VITAMIN C AND CAN BE EATEN FREELY BECAUSE OF ITS LOW CALORIE CONTENT.
